

Small Moment Writing Ideas

DUE: Wednesday, October 12th

Dear Families,

We are beginning our next writing unit where the children will be writing Small Moment books-stories about one small moment in their everyday lives. Attached is a list of possible writing ideas or topics for their stories. Please help your child make a list of possible topics to write about during our writing workshop time. These should be actual things that your child has recently experienced. A "good" topic might be the time I jumped off the diving board. A "not-so-good" topic might be swimming, as that is too general. Topics should be real events that your child remembers and has a lot to say about. They should be small moments and not large ideas. When your child is stuck for a topic to write about in Writing Workshop, s/he will be able to refer to this list for inspiration. You can do the writing on the sheet, but please print so your child can read it without much help. Please return by Wednesday, October 12.

Sincerely,
First Grade Teachers
